ANALYSES OF CONTEMPORARY SOCIETY

edited by
BERNARD ROSENBERG

This volume contains representative excerpts from seven landmark studies of American social behavior that have appeared in recent years. The authors of the studies are gifted observers of the American scene — seminal thinkers who have derived their interpretations not from the tenets of any “conventional wisdom” or circumscribed methodology, but from their own bold syntheses of a great variety of data and theory. These men write clearly; their message is seldom obscured by jargon or verbosity. Thus, while these studies are penetrating analyses of American society, they also form an exceptionally lucid introduction to the basic purposes of sociology. In headnotes to the selections, Mr. Rosenberg describes the contribution of each study to contemporary social analysis and its author’s place within sociology’s “grand tradition.”

"No other book is so rich in significant material."

— JOE LEE DAVIS
University of Michigan

"With the excerpting and compiling done by the editor, it will be possible for introductory students to range more widely in their reading, to write term papers on key sociological issues, and to still become familiar with the excellent sources brought together in this paperback. Thank you for this contribution."

— BERT N. ADAMS
University of Wisconsin, Madison

"This book provides selections that are highly relevant in content for today's college students."

— HERBERT H. STROUP
Brooklyn College

"A most unusual book — the selections are outstanding."

— J. H. HUBER
Pennsylvania State University

"A unified and yet diverse selection which keeps the sociological spotlight in focus."

— CHESTER L. HUNT
Western Michigan University

RACIAL AND ETHNIC RELATIONS: SELECTED READINGS

edited by
BERNARD E. SEGAL

RACIAL AND ETHNIC RELATIONS: SELECTED READINGS is intended for use as a text or supplement in courses on social and ethnic relations. The range of coverage and the wealth of material make this book an indispensable source of information on what is perhaps the most important topic concerning sociologists today.

Part I presents a sampling of the ideals and materials of this field of inquiry. The selections in Parts II and III introduce the student to the diversity of American ethnic subculture and explore the problems resulting from such diversity. Included are articles on the Japanese-Americans, the Puerto Ricans, and the problem of anti-Semitism. Parts IV, V, and VI concentrate on the Negro in America. The concluding selection is a round-table discussion on the future of the problem with James Baldwin, Nathan Glazer, Sidney Hook, Gunnar Myrdal, and Norman Podhoretz as participants. Here, at last, is a collection of articles on racial and ethnic relations that is truly useful.

"Perhaps the best reader available for the course in race relations. The selections are well chosen; the introduction competent. I plan to use it next round."

— H. LAURENCE ROSS
New York University

"The best reader in the field of ethnic groups ... by far."

— C. H. ANDERSON
University of Utah

"By far, the best book of readings for undergraduate courses in racial and ethnic relations."

— R. J. MCKINLEY
University of Illinois at Chicago Circle

"This is a very useful book. The readings are well selected, and the organization is good."

— GUY B. JOHNSON
University of North Carolina
